Mr. Blaine Busy. SAID TO BE BOOMING LOGAN FOR PRESIDENT PRO TEM. OF THE SENATE. A special to the Baltimore American com. Bangor, Me., dated yesterday, says: Much speculation is aroused here by the actions of Mr. James G. Blaine. Saturday night he visited Ellsworth, and had a conference with Senator Hale upon the question of the next Vice-President. This evening a special train was sent in a hurry to bring him up. He arrived with exPostmaster Manley, of Augusta, and Col. Oakley, United States marshal of Wisconsin, in time to catch the night train for the west. At the depot quite an animated discussion was held between Mr. Blaine and Representative Boutelle, of which sufficient was overheard to make it clearly understood that Mr. Blaine, for reasons best known to himself, is working a boom to make Logan president of the Senate.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION. THE VICE PRESIDENT'S FUNERAL. Importance of Legislation on the Sub-

THE SAME CONDITION OF AFFAIRS AFTER GARFIELD'S DEATH AS AT PRESENT-PARTI-SAN ELEMENTS OF THE SUBJECT, ETC.

One effect of the death of Vice President Hendricks has been to awaken in the minds of members of Congress a realization of the importance of some law definitely providing for presidential succession. Since the memorable contest of 1876 this subject has received attention in Congress, and though the importance of such an enactment has been conceded, nothing has been done. Even when the democrats had control of both houses of Congress they neglected to enact a law of this kind. Committees have been created in both houses and given jurisdiction of this subject, but nothing has come of it. Partisan considerations have largely interfered to prevent the needed legislation. For most of the time during the last few years the two houses of Congress have been on opposite sides politically. And this has operated to prevent legislation definitely providing for the succession to office in the event of the death or disability of both President and Vice President. AFTER THE DEATH OF PRESIDENT GARFIELD, and when Mr. Arthur assumed the presidential office, the country was left in the same condition as at present. Then there was neither President pro tempore of the Senate nor Speaker of the House, and the possibility of Mr. Arthur's death was discussed with grave fears. But not-withstanding the apprehension that existed nothing was done to provide for a regular continuance of governmental machinery in the event that death should remove the chosen rulers. Now the question again forces itself upon the attention of Senators and Representatives, and it will most probably be presented in Congress early during the coming session. THE PARTISAN ELEMENT OF THE SUBJECT statute which vests the presidential office upon the president pro tempore of the Senate in the event of the death of both President and Vice President, on the ground that such succession might reverse the will of the people as last expressed at the ballot box. NOT PLEASING TO THE DEMOCRATS. In connection with this subject there is a good deal of feeling among democrats with regard to the election of a president pro tempore of the Senate. As the law now stands, that Logan or Senator Sherman should be elected is not pleasing to the democrats. They do not like to contemplate the possibility of either of hese Senators coming to the presidential chair. "They are," said a democratic Congressman, speaking of Sherman and Logan to a STAR reporter, "the representatives of the bloody shirt wing of their party. They are bitter sectional ists and proscriptive partisans. The republicans, in view of the fact that the political sentiments of both Logan and Sherman have been condemned at the polls, should not force either one of them upon us as presiding officer of the POSITION OF SENATOR-ELECT MITCHELL. There is some talk, too, of the possibility of the election of a democrat, but such an idea does not seem to be entertained with any great feeling of hope among democrats. It is said elected by the aid of democratic votes, will probably be willing to co-operate with the democrats in the matter of the selection of a presiding officer. One or two other repu senators who are known to be very liberal in politics are spoken of as possibly refraining rom entering a republican caucus, but this is

NO CONFERENCE YET. The democratic Senators who are in Washngton have only considered the subject of electing a presiding officer in a general way. There has been no conference among them or will name some one of their number for the office, and give him the compliment of their votes, unless there shall be a compromise of some sort between the two parties in the Scade. This is not deemed probable and it is likely that Senator Harris, of Tennessee, will be complimented with the democratic nomination.

Mr. Morrow and His Bookkeeper. STORY OF AN APPOINTMENT IN THE AGRI-

A story was published in the New York Sun to-day on the authority of Frank Thoma, who Sunday Gazette office, that he had received an appointment as a clerk in the Department of Agriculture through Mr. T. G. Morrow, editor of the Gazette, but had no duties to perform except to draw his pay of $100 a month and give it to Mr. Morrow. He received the appointment, he states, on July 15, 1884, from Gen. Carmen, then chief clerk, and continued to The U.S. Suprementation of the control of draw his pay until April 7th last, just before says, he was discharged from the employ of the Gazette for some petty reason. Mr. Morrow wanted to get hold of the papers relating to the appointment in the Agricultural department, and they had an interview in the presence of Police Lieutenant Arnold. Lieutenant Arnold told Thoma, so the latter says, that the letters were his and he had a right to keep them. The papers referred to by Thoma are his appointment as a $1,200 clerk in the statistical division, a letter from Chief Clerk Carmen to Mr. Morrow enclosing the letter of appointment and requesting him to have Thoma report to the department, and another letter from the hief clerk, dated April 7th last, furloughing Mr. Morrow stated to a STAR reporter that was true that he had secured the appointment in the Department of Agriculture for Thoma, continued to take charge of the books of the Gazette office and had control of the cash. It was true that Thoma turned over his pay to him every month, but in the meantime Thoma had drawn upon the cash of the office-five or for advancing his salary. When Thoma let the Gazette office he took with him, Mr. Morroy

The District Debt. CONGRESS TO BE ASKED TO HAVE THE GENERAL

'I understand that an effort will be made this winter to induce Congress to have the federal government assume the debt of the District," said a citizen to a STAR reporter this schools to-morrow, out of respect to the memory morning. "I think that it certainly should be the late Vice President. morning. "I think that it certainly should be done. The debt is over twenty million dollars, which is an immense amount to be saddled upon a population of this size. But the main argument in favor of such a movement is the increased revenues which then could be applied

A Pittsburg special to the New York Tribune says: Mrs. Cornelia L. Foulk has filed a petition for divorce from her husband, Col. W. L. Foulk. She alleges that he has for two years, by cruel treatment, endangered her life and compelled her to withdraw from her home and family. Col. Foulk is a retired officer of the United States army. THE PERSON BUILDING WORKMEN.-Owing to the exhaustion of the appropriation for erecting the new Pension building, the office of the supervising architect and engineer has been practically closed and the employes discharged.

The work, which has been provided for by existing contracts, will, however, go on. An additional appropriation will be necessary from Congress to complete the building, which is nearly done.

THEY WANT MAINE.—A telegram to the N. Y. Times from Montreal, Nov. 29, says: Some of the French conservative papers in this province are urging the government to take steps to assert Canada's claim to the state of Maine, which, they allege, is a just one. This movement is, of course, started to withdraw the attention of the people from the Riel affair and allow the French members of parliament to return to their former allegiance without compromising themseves with their constituents. The French press of this city has fallen into the trap, and is gravely debating whether the American government would be willing to accept a compensation in money for the territory Canada would receive by a rectification of the froatier.

The President Will Not Attend-His Statement of the Reasons-Departure of Members of the Cabinet, of the Congressional Committees and Others For Indianapolis.

The President yesterday afternoon determined not to make the trip to Indianapolis, and made the following statement regarding his change of plan:

"In the first moment of the shock of Mr. Hendricks' death I yielded to my inclination and declared my intentions to be present at the funeral. Of course, in reaching that conclusion, I did not put out of view a peremptory press or public business, or what I deemed a sufficient consideration of my duty to the sufficient consideration of my duty to the people. The public business I thought I could dispose of by additional application and more hours of work, and I consider it to be my duty to the people to answer a tender sentiment of respect and affection to the dead Vice President, which does them great honor.

"I am satisfied now that I was at fault in considering the question, in that I did not take as comprehensive a view of the duty I owe the public as I should; that is, I did not look at every phase of it, and I am afraid that my strong personal desire somewhat clouded my judgment.

"I am now reminded by some of the best and most patriotic and thoughtful of our citizens that the real and solemn duties of my office are at the national capital, and that in the present peculiar and delicate situation I ought not to take even the remotest chance of accident incident to travel to gratify a sentiment so general dent to travel to gratify a sentiment so general and so characteristic as that involved in this subject. I have been profoundly impressed by these considerations, but most of all influenced by their strong and unanimous presentation by the devoted friends of the late Vice President living in his state and city, and their indorse-ment by the noble and patriotic woman, who, in the infinite sorrow of her widowhood, reflects the spirit and character of her honored husband in her solicitude for the public good. attends in this case a change of design, nor any stubborn idea of heroism will justify me in subjecting the country to any greater chance of lowing telegrams in response to an inquiry if Mrs. Hendricks regarded the President's pres-"Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 28, 1885.—To THE PRESIDENT: Mrs. Hendricks requests me to thank you for your message of sympathy, and also Miss Cleveland for her kind and beau-

TEE THIS MORNING. The special train to Indianapolis, bearing the congressional committee to attend Vice President Hendricks' funeral, left the B. & P. depot promptly at 9:30 this morning. The train consisted of three Pullman drawing-room sleepers, a dining car and a smoker. The first car was Canaday, and was occupied by the Senators and Justices of the Supreme Court. The other two were occupied by the members of the House, and were in charge of Mr. Leedom, ser-geant-at-arms of the House. Quite a number of those originally appointed upon the commit-tee found it impossible to leave the city at this time. In some instances these were replaced by other members, but the size of the commit tee was greatly reduced by absentees. In the Senators car were Mr. Justice Blatchford, Mr. Justice Matthews, Senators Edmunds, Beck, Dolph, Vest, Conger, Allison, Harris of Tennessee, Jones of Arkansas, Pugh, Blair, Camden and Vance; Mr. Canaday, sergeant-at-arms; Gen. Mobbing Colored Miners. TWO MEN KILLED AND MANY WOUNDED IN

A riot occurred here last night between black and white miners, in which two men were killed and several others seriously wounded. The negro drivers were returning from the mines with their mules, on the way to the mines with their mules, on the way to the stables, and when opposite the railroad depot they were assaulted by a crowd of white miners who had gathered at that place. Rocks and other missiles were freely used.

The mob followed the drivers up the street for several blocks, all the time keeping up the fusilade. The negroes finally turned back and attempted to reach the mine, but had gone but a short distance when a pistol shot was fired, and soon the builets were flying thick. Everybody seemed to have a revolver, and to be making use of it. When near the mine, one of the drivers fell, and was carried into a house near by, and died soon afterward. by, and died soon afterward.

In the mean time the other drivers had reached the stockade, where they secured rifles and opened fire on their assailants, whose numbers were being gradually increased. The firing was kept up for half an hour, when the white

He expressed the belief that the residents of the territory were generally in favor of a division, the movement being more popular in the southern division. As a political move Gov. Pierce thought that the division scheme would be favorably entertained by the democratic Congressmen. In this way the President would be permitted to select a double set of territorial officers, and the patronage would be doubled. He thought that as a stroke of policy the democratic Congressmen should pass a bili permitting a division, as in that way the democratic party would become more popular with the residents of a future state. BRIEF HISTORY OF HIS PEOPLE AND OF THE CAUSES WHICH LED TO THE REBELLION. people, the half breeds, whose rebellion caused the hanging of Riel, was published Saturday by the Montreal Star. It is the work of the last days of the half breed patriot, Louis Riel, and was lett as a legacy to set before the world the true history of his people. He traces the settlement of some French in the Canadian northwest, their intermarriage with

Langevin, with the church land on which a chapel was being built; it sold the school lands and the property of thirty-five families. "Is it astonishing that the Metis rose in revolt?" he asked.
The first rebellion, he says, left the Saskatchewan half breeds undealt with, and he adds: "I crossed the lines without arms and without ammunition, taking with me my wife and children. I did not think of war. I came and children. I did not think of war. I came to draw up petitions. The government of Ottawa in 1870 had drawn up with me an agreement, not one clause of which in my favor had it yet carried out. I came to petition for my people and for myself, to ask the Dominion government for what belonged to us, in the hope of obtaining at least something if we could not get complete satisfaction." He says that marching troops through American territory is a favor which Britain and Canada abused by misgoverning the Metis in a despotic manner, quite contrary to the principles of the United States.
